

Teachers explore English and math standards

Last week, teachers from both Barnes Butte Elementary and Crooked River Elementary, grades 2-5, worked together to further explore the State of Oregon's English and math standards. This work included analyzing the skills necessary for each standard as well as how the standards are assessed. Ultimately, the teachers' work will help ensure that Crook County School District students are learning the skills and content necessary to be successful in both college and the work field.

