Students to read their published works

The local Scribblers Writing Club has published the anthology “Voices on the Wind,” featuring not only the works of their members, but the poems and short stories of 18 Crook County High School students. Last school year, Scribblers Writing Club members invited students in Rebekah Picard’s Language Arts classes to contribute to their fifth anthology. The book has been printed, and the community is welcome to a celebration and book reading reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21 at the Bowman Museum. A few students and Scribblers will read their works. A light dinner and dessert will be available.
